

Our local radio station K-LOVE is extremely important to my family. Not only does this radio station touch our lives by the music it provides, it reminds us the importance of our faith and the celebration of our faith.

One of the benefits to listening to K-Love is the fact that we are able to continue listening to it almost anywhere we travel across the state, as well as, our nation. If the FCC displaced the FM translators in favor of LPFM's, not only would it disrupt K-Love for those communities in which it resided, it would also disrupt the continuity of service which we have not only come to expect, but love.

If K-Love was not beloved for the service it provided, it would not be able to exist. Because it relies on the donations from its listeners to continue service, we have developed a reliance and relationship with K-Love. This fact alone should make the FCC realize that its importance to its listeners is in the public interest.

Combined with its focus on faith through music provides a unique service for the public that can not be easily duplicated by LPFM's.

Thank you.

Sincerely,

Jeremy Felker
